

Organizational Health Is More Than Financial Performance

Most leaders track revenue, margins, and productivity.
But those numbers only tell you what already happened.

Organizational health reveals how well your leadership system is working today - and where execution, accountability, and alignment are quietly breaking down before performance suffers.

Why ADEPT Culture and the Denison Cultural Survey?

ADEPT Culture helps leaders see the real drivers of organizational effectiveness and turn insight into focused, measurable action.

Grounded in decades of research and used in more than 8,000 organizations worldwide, the Denison Cultural Survey provides a measurable assessment of organizational health - connecting leadership behavior directly to business performance.

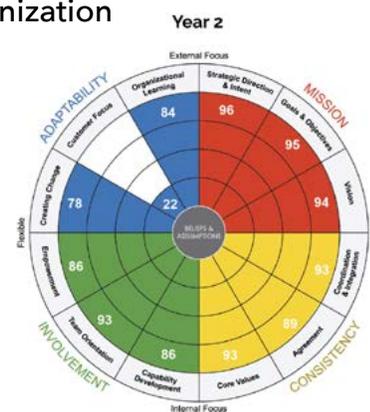

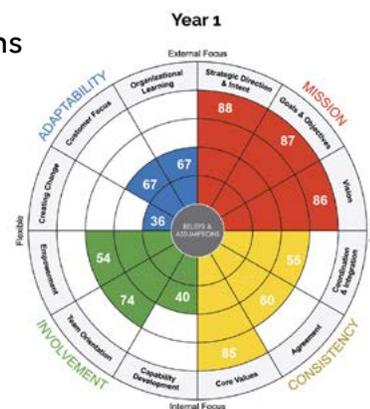

What the Organizational Health Assessment Measures

- Where leadership behaviors support execution
- How adaptable to change the organization is
- Where misalignment is slowing results
- The degree of commitment of employees to company goals
- How accountability, clarity, and decision-making show up across the organization

From Insight to Action

Data without action is wasted potential. ADEPT Culture specializes in translating organizational health data into practical leadership action. We help leaders:

- Focus on the few issues that matter most
- Align leadership behavior with strategy
- Create clear ownership and follow-through
- Measure progress over time

Paul DePalma
Founder, ADEPT Leadership®

- 30+ years in leadership and organizational development
- Specialist in habit-based training for behavioral change
- Expert in leadership alignment, execution, and accountability

Understand the health of your organization – before performance suffers.

Book an Organizational Health Consultation • 407-660-5757 • pdepalma@adeptleadership.com